To add to the answer, I just like ZenDesk much more than "Stickit" because I have more control of my notes. It seems to be fully customizable, similar to Trello. Just to name a few things, I like: Integrating

What's New In Portable Stickies?

Stickies is a program that replaces Windows Sticky Notes. It offers a user-friendly Windows 98/95 design and nearly 100 different custom skins. The program displays notes in a rectangular screen area, making it ideal for taking notes. The notes may be organized by date, time, and any tag that you wish to assign to the notes. Notes may be individually selected or grouped in chat-like windows. Notes may be highlighted, copied, edited or deleted. Notes may be printed, exported as text or as an image file, copied to the clipboard and pasted into other programs, converted to HTML, or copied to the desktop. Comments may be made directly on the notes. They may be attached as an image or HTML file. You may attach multiple files to a note, and notes may be attached to any window on the screen. You may lock a note so that the notes are not editable. Notes may be displayed in lists with tags. You may edit the tags that appear on the notes. You may search for notes by date and by tag. Notes may be printed to a PostScript file. Stickies runs as a Windows service. It features a built-in scheduler that lets you set notes to be displayed after a set period of time or on a given date.

---

---

Stickies Features:

Customizable skins:

Stickies features 100 skins for note creation. Create your own skins by drawing or painting notes. Floating notes for view notes from anywhere on the screen. Drag and drop notes from windows. Multiple notes: Many notes may be edited at once. An on-screen help system. Print notes: Print multiple notes. Export notes: Notes may be exported in RTF, HTML, or PostScript format. Attach multiple files to notes: Files may be attached to notes by dropping or dragging them into the note window. Sharing notes: Notes may be attached to a window by dragging them. Check for version updates: Configuration Editor: This feature allows you to alter Sticky Notes settings and

---
